

MEET OUR TEAM

Bryce Kubly has been in the fur business for 11 years. He attended Copenhagen Fur School, and has traveled extensively throughout the world marketing wild fur. His focus is on relationships with end users and personal quality control of GFW products. He has proven to be a great asset to GFW, being focused on the growth of the company, making partnership at the young age of 24. He has established a team in Canada with a combined experience in the fur business of over 150 years. With this team's knowledge and dedication, and Bryce's phenomenal leadership skills, we are confident GFW's expansion into Canada will be a significant benefit for the trappers and hunters of Canada, and the fur industry as a whole.

Dave Bewick has forty-five years experience as a fur auction employee. He served as Vice-president of Canadian Wild Fur Operations with NAFA, Executive Director of the North American Wild Fur Shippers Council, and as a NAFA representative on the board of the Fur Institute of Canada. Dave has traveled North America, Europe, and China promoting NAFA Wild Fur assortments. He attended all NAFA auctions and participated in buyer workshops with NAFA's marketing agents. Over his entire career, he attended trapper meetings, workshops, and conventions throughout North America. Dave retired from NAFA in 2015, and the NAWFSC in 2017. He joined the GFW team in November 2019.

Don and Karen Gordon have been involved in the trapping industry for more than 25 years. Don has trapped in both the southern and northern parts of Saskatchewan. They have both been a part of the Saskatchewan Trappers Association (STA) since the early 90's, and have volunteered in many positions, including Trapping Education Instructors.

Marty Senneker is no stranger to the Alberta Trappers, and is a true veteran of the trapping industry. Marty was known as the NAFA agent in Southern Alberta for nearly 20 years, as well as for his impressive catches of coyotes annually. He is the innovator of the modern neck snare. Due to his passion for the wild fur industry on this continent, he constantly seeks to improve and protect the trapper's way of life and the fur industry as a whole.

Howard Trager is a 3rd generation force in the fur business, working for Gillick Fur Trading in Montreal with his father Sam. His specialty is wild fur. He has traveled the world, buying and selling fur from the back roads to the metropolises of Canada, USA, China and Europe. He has met with many people from all walks of life including trappers, ranchers, manufacturers and retailers. He has seen the fur business go through many changes in 40 years. His goal has always been to promote the fur business and work together with all participants in this great industry.

Jason and Terri Hooft have been trapping for 15 years in the Prince George area. For them, it doesn't get much better than spending a long day on the trapline with their family and returning to the cabin with a good catch of fur. As trapline owners, trap suppliers, and former collectors, they believe that the future success of trapping is dependent on all trappers acting to support the trapping industry, and they are passionate about seeing wildlife populations effectively managed.
